For the first time in many, many years and, probably for the first time ever, radio (XM radio) provides an incredible breadth and depth of music, a variety of talk shows and news outlets, and other entertainment. My wife and I are long-distance truck drivers and XM provides the means for us to maintain alertness and concentration on driving while listening to a wide variety of music and information not available anywhere else. Adding local content about weather and traffic conditions in a specific and known location, without the distraction of scanning the dial for what is available on AM or FM, may actually add to safety on the highways--something that we are very interested in. It seems a major contradiction for the government to approve restricting radio competition while promoting CAFTA and NAFTA and other free trade agreements. I would appreciate the FCC to say NO to the NAB's petition 04-160 and allow XM to air local weather and traffic conditions. Thank you for the opportunity to express my opinion.
